16 NAVY MEN DIE WHEN VESSELS CRASH

Collision Took Place Thirteen Miles From Coiba Island

CRAFT GOES DOWN

One of Victims Killed Outright and Others Reported Missing—Twelve Miles From Shore.

Washington, Feb. 28.—One enlisted man was killed, 15 others lost and two injured when the United States destroyer Woolsey sank in the Pacific off the coast of Panama yesterday, following a collision with the American steamer Steel Inventor.

The Woolrey was cut in two at the after tank by the collision nd sank at 6 a. m., yesterday while in tow of the destroyer Aaron Ward, which, with the destroyer Philip, hav 112 of the Woolsey's survivors aboard.

The collision was reported to the Navy Department late yesterday by Admiral Rodman, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, to which the Woolsey, one of the navy's most modern destroyers, was attached.

The damage to the Steel Inventor was slight and no casulties occurred among her crew. She was reported to be proceeding to Balboa under convoy of the destroyer Buchanan.

The report forwarded by Admiral Rodman said Tom Woodcock, first class engineer, was killed by the collision and his body was placed aboard the Buchanan.

The collsion, Admiral Rodman reported, occurred 13 miles southwest of Coiba Island. The detroyer sank as an attempt was being made to bring her into a port. The report to the Navy Department did not explain the manner in which the missing men were lost, whether due to the collision and the flooding of their vessel or whether carried down when she sank.

The Woolsey was commanded by Commander H. C. Gearing, Jr. She had a length of 310 feet, a breadth of 31 feet and a normal displacement of 1,154 tons. Her speed was rated at 35 knots and her normal complement was 16 officers and 106 men.

Sewer Tapping

Health Department Says About 30 Houses Connected Without Permits

There are about 30 houses in the city connected with sewers for which no permit has been taken out Deputy Health Officer Garvey told Justice Snow in the police court today when a citizen was cited for failure to take out a permit for tapping a sewer on complaint of Health Officer L. E. Foulks.

The owner of the property explained to the court that when he purchased the property about seven years ago there was sewer connection, and Dr. Foulks told the court that the records in the office of the city engineer did not show that the required permit and cost of tapping had been done through the engineer's office.

Members of the health department explained to the court that they are now running down all such cases and propose to have the owners cited in to court. A continuance was granted in this case for further investigation.

Await Result

Commuters Anxious to See How One Car System Will Work

The Washingon-Virginia Railway Company beginning tomorrow will operate a single car between this city and Washington except during the rush hours according to an announcement made several days ago.

Patrons of the road declare all of the morning and afternoon trains of two cars are crowded and they are wondering just what the result will be with only one car under the present schedule proposed, unless the railroad provides two cars for their accommodation.

As heretofore stated, the company states they will put into operation a fifteen minute schedule instead of twenty minutes between this city and Washington and will make the trip in half an hour instead of thirty-five minutes.

Carry Harding's Address

Special Arrangement by Bell Telephone Co., Will Enable it to be Heard Half a Mile

For the first time in the history of the United States an inaugural address will be heard in Washington by everyone of the hundreds of thousands of men and women who will crowd the broad open space which stretches for fifteen hundred feet in front of the inaugural stand at the Capitol Building. The reason for this is found in the loud speaking device which has been installed for the benefit of the public, and which is the only feature of the entire ample inaugural ceremonies outside of the taking of the oath. By means of this device, which is hidden from the eye, the human voice is made to carry half a mile under perfect conditions.

The apparatus is a system of motors, generators, wires, transmitters, amplifiers and other electrical machinery, designed by the experts of the Bell Telephone System, which has contributed the speaker to the inaugural ceremonies for the benefit of the public. It is not a commercial device. It is not patented, nor is it for sale or for rent. To the experts, the system is the exposition of the development of everything scientific in the telephone world, for the principles involved are those of the telephone and the engineers and research men, of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, have simply brought into play some of the marvelous discoveries and developments of the Bell laboratories.

Although there are three rooms full of machinery and electrical devices in connection with the loud speaker, none of it is in evidence, and the huge horns through which the speech will be heard are camouflaged by being made a part of the roof of the speaker's stand. So far as the speaker himself is concerned he will see nothing of the apparatus except small transmitter boxes which will be set somewhere in front and to the sides of his speaking desk, so that his voice will be caught in the workings of the loud speaker no matter which way he turns.

When the President Elect speaks, his voice will generate energy by means of the transmitter. This energy is transferred by wires to the complex apparatus now being installed under the Capitol steps, the energy is led into a little glass bulb, which the engineers call a "vacum tube amplifier" the function of which is to receive energy, multiply it and send it on the other amplifiers until it reaches a stage sufficient to turn it loose in voice form through the hidden horns out to the distant crowds.

While the speaking is in progress, a dozen Bell experts will be watching each bit of apparatus. There will be men at certain points on the Capitol plaza connected with the machinery rooms by telephone, to report to the men at the amplifiers. The working loud speaker requires a crew as large as a small vessel.

To Resume Hearing

Commuters' Side to be Heard Tomorrow Before I. C. C.

The railroad company's side of the testimony in the suit to boost fare on the Washington Virginia Railway line was completed Saturday and the testimony of the commuters will be heard beginning at 9.30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

It probably will be a month before the commission will report its findings in the case.

Witnesses from Alexandria and also on the line will testify at the hearing tomorrow.

OVER 40 KILLED AND 100 INJURED

New York Central Express Dashes Into Michigan Flyer

BODIES MANGLED

26 Victims Removed From Wreckage —Engineer is Blamed—Passengers Tell of Crash.

Porter, Ind., Feb. 28.—More than 40 persons were killed and at least 100 injured in a collision between two passenger trains here at 6:20 o'clock yesterday evening.

Four hours after the accident 26 bodies had been taken from the wreckage, and railway officials declared the death toll might exceed 45. Many of the bodies were so badly mangled that identification is impossible.

New York Central train No. 151, known as the Interstate Express, from Boston to Chicago, traveling at a great rate of speed, dashed into the middle of Michigan, Central train No. 20, known as the Canadian Flyer, from Chicago to Detroit, at the intersection of the tracks of the two railroads. The tracks cross each other at a sharp angle after running almost parallel.

Many of the dead and injured passengers were the occupants of a wooden combination baggage and passenger coach, which was demolished.

According to railway officials, the disaster was caused by the failure of the engineer of the Michigan Central train to heed a block signal at the crossover.

The block signal automaticaly set a derailing switch. When the Michigan Central train failed to heed the signal against it struck the derailing switch and ploughed along the ties for 300 feet before it stopped, with the wooden coach directly on the track in front of the oncoming New York Central train, which hit it squarely and then ploughed its way through the wreckage before it could be stopped.

The telephone operator at the local exchange sent out an emergency call and farmers for miles around gathered at the scene to aid in the work of rescue.

Both trains were largely made up of steel Pullman cars, but these were smashed and imprisoned many of the passengers.

Both engines and all the coaches, including the diners, in which many people were sitting down for dinner, were thrown from the tracks. Train men quickly secured axes from the cars and with the help of the uninjured passengers began the work of releasing the trapped one and rescuing the bodies of the dead.

Among the dead are the two enginemen of the New York Central train. The engineer of the other train is missing and it is thought he jumped from his cab and fled when he saw the oncoming New York Central train.

The scene of the wreck is the exact spot where the Hagenbach-Wallace circus train was demolished and practically 80 persons killed several years ago. The circus train was running on the New York Central tracks and a Michigan Central train crashed into it.

The few people living at the junction point were attracted by the crash of the collision and immediately joined in the rescue work. Relief trains arrived from Chicago, 50 miles away, and Michigan City in about an hour. The bodies were carried to nearby points in automobies.

There were no physicians here and first aid was given the injured only by passengers.

John H. Gelhart, of Oak Park, Ill., one of the New York Central passengers, gave a graphic description of the wreck, as follows:

"The first intimation we had of the disaster came when our train began to jerk when the emergency brakes were suddenly applied.

"The next moment the windows were shattered by bits of wreckage, and there was a terrific grinding as we ploughed through the other train. Women began to scream, and I found myself lying alongside the track.

"We crowded out of the wreckage as best we could. On all sides were people lying on the ground, some dead and some injured. Many of the bodies were badly mangled.

"Everyone was running around frantically, flames and clouds of steam were shooting from the engines, bu wreckage of the cars did not catch fire.

"The trainmen quickly obtained axes from the cars and armed with these, the passengers helped in the work of recovering the bodies.

"There was little we could do for the injured, but we tried to make them comfortable until the rescue trains arrived."

Reception Planned

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Collier to be Honored March 15

The teacher training class of the Alexandria Sunday schools will give a reception to Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Collier at the close of the series of lectures Dr. Collier is giving in this city, March 15. This was decided at the last meeting of the class in the Sunday school room of the M. E. Church, South. Dr. Collier was detained in Baltimore that evening and was unable to fill his engagement here.

The class has felt that it would like to express its very great appreciation of the wonderful series of lectures the Doctor has been delivering to the teachers of the city and has chosen this method of expression. There are ten lectures in the series being given to the teachers of the city and the series will close Tuesday evening March 15, and this is the evening decided on for the reception.

A committee was appointed consisting of Miss Alice Gronau, of the Second Presbyterian Sunday school, chairman, and Mrs. J. A. Hulfish, of the Second Baptist school, and Miss Rosa Petty, of St. Paul's school, to look after the details of the reception which will be informal and will be held at the close of the last lecture. The eighth lecture of the series will be given tomorrow (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock in the Sunday school room of the M. E. Church, South.

These contributions brought the total amount received by the committee and nine denominations to $2,710,768.

Movements to have American house wives give up either one course at dinner daily or one meal a week and donate the amount saved to the relief fund are gaining popularity throughout the country, the committee reported.

MASS OF MEASURES BEFORE CONGRESS

Expect Old Appropriation Bills Except Naval Budget To Pass

DEADLOCK ON BILL

Final Jam Threatens Many of Most Important Acts With Failure—Investigations on Casualty List.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Congress enters tomorrow on the home-stretch drive toward adjournment Friday, with whip and spur on appropriation bills and a scramble for the tape on the part of scores of other measures. Night sessions are in order with an all night finale, as usual, preceding inaugural day.

All of the appropriation measures except the naval budget are expected to go through, although only seven of the fourteen regular money bills have been completed and just two have been signed so far by President Wilson. The chief executive plans to be at the Capitol the forenoon of March 4 for action on eleventh-hour measures.

Five of the appropriation measures —the army, agriculture, sundry civil, legislative and fortifications—are in conference, but agreements expected. A big fight is expected over the army bill due to the Senate's increase of the regular army to 175,000 men as against 150,000 fixed by the House. The questions of free seeds and of a $5,000,000 loan to farmers in drouth-stricken regions of the West are tying up the agriculture bill.

The Senate and House are deadlocked on the sundry civil measure over the $10,000,000 Muscle Shoals power amendment of the Senate and over the $18,600,000 appropriation for soldier hospitals. The House probably will vote tomorrow in an attempt to clear this deadlock. The controversy as to the legislative bill now revolves largely about the provisions for purchase by the Treasury of $200,000,000 of farm-loan bonds proposed by the Senate. The House will vote Tuesday on the provision.

Little legislation except the appropriation bills is expected to get through the final jam. The Fordney emergency tariff bill comes up tomorrow in the Senate for final action, with transmission to President Wilson in prospect. It is one measure in a four-cornered fight for precedence in the Senate. The other three bills behind which pressure is planned are the war-time law repeal resolution; the soldiers' bonus measure, and the navy appropriation budget. The last is expected to bring a renewal of disarmament debate, which promises to so delay action as to thwart passage of the measure.

Other important bills which seem threatened with failure include the packers' control bill, the maternity and infant-aid measure, the budget bill, the congressional reappointment measure, the Calder coal regulation plan, and the $100,000,000 good roads appropriation. Predictions were general last night that the soldiers' bonus also would be added to the list of failures.

Bills to regulate cold storage, to reorganize the Patent Office and to authorize co-operative marketing by farmers also are in conference, with the outcome dubious. Other unfinished business includes proposals for impeachment of Federal Judge Landis and for investigation of the Bergdoll case, both of which seemingly are headed for the casualty list.

Numerous committee reports also are due in this week. Among these are conclusions of the House committee's war investigations, the Shipping Board inquiry and the Calder reconstruction study. The Kenyon committee will meet tomorrow to frame a report on its investigation last summer and fall into political campaign expenditures. Further inquiry will be made today by the Senate committee investigating allied loans, but legislation is regarded as doubtful.

Senate Democrats will make an-

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT. Forward, as occasion offers. Never look round to see whether any shall note it. Be satisfied with success in even the smallest matter, and think that even such a result is no trifle.

Marcus Aurelius.

Calendars of Julian, Gregory, and Omar Khayyam.

We have been requested in writing, by one of the most learned and cultured of Alexandria's citizens, to write an editorial on the Julian and Gregorian calendars. We do not know why this request should have been made of us. Perhaps to test our own learning; perhaps out of idle curiosity; and perhaps to gratify a genuine thirst for knowledge. We will be charitable and assume the latter to be the case. With our large, editorial type, the matter would consume more space than we could well give to it, so we have placed it elsewhere in our columns, with the statement that it is merely a condensation from volumes in our library.

We are somewhat surprised that the calendar of old Omar Khayyam, the Persian tent-maker, poet and astronomer, was not included in the enquiry. When Malik Shah determined to reform the calendar in use in Persia, in the latter half of the eleventh century, he appointed Omar, as one of eight learned men and astronomers of the time, to make the computation. "A computation of time," says the historian Gibbon, "which surpasses the Julian and approaches the accuracy of the Gregorian style."

For our own part, we have always preferred to use the Persian Calendar, as much more congenial and suited to our tastes. It is not generally known, but the fact is that the Governor of North Carolina, when he made his historic remark to the Governor of South Carolina, based his comment solely on a computation of time according to the calendar of Omar Khayyam.

We hope the information given elsewhere in the Gazette today, and our editorial, will be sufficient for our correspondent. We have only to add that Mr. Volstead has succeeded in restoring the Gregorian calendar to use in this office.

The Bible and Shakespeare.

A word is an articulate symbol of thought. Thought is invisible, intangible, inaudible. That is, it cannot be made known to any of our five senses except by the written or spoken word. Words alone can convey thought. Music conveys feeling, which is deeper than thought. It suggests thoughts but does not convey them. Nor can words fully convey thought. They only carry a hint of its meaning. Anything that defines, confines; that is, limits. Hence our thoughts are limited by the boundaries speech puts upon them. Speech, which is composed of words, depends upon the human mind back of it. A large vocabulary enables the educated man to better express himself. The geniuses of the race are those who make wider the ocean of speech, and stretch its shores further into the illimitable unknown.

Shakespeare, the greatest master of speech who ever lived, had a vocabulary of some fifteen thousand words. Milton had about ten thousand. The average scholar has about four or five thousand. An ordinary man possesses, perhaps, two thousand. Bayard Taylor said he could travel in any foreign country with an equipment of some four or five hundred words.

Speech, said Matthew Arnold, is only something thrown out at thought, with the hope of hitting it and bringing it down to human comprehension. Christopher Pearse Cranch said, beautifully, "thought is deeper than all speech; feeling deeper than all thought; souls to souls can never teach, what unto themselves is taught." Tennyson, one of the great masters of speech, almost next to Shakespeare, said: "Would that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me." Beethoven complained that the wonderous music dwelling in his mind, lost irreparably in its transmutation into sound. Even Shakespeare, sole and incomparable among the sovereigns of thought in this world, now and then in his swift lightning flashes, discloses a background of infinite beauty and grandeur, that we only glimpse but cannot fathom.

The study of words is one of the most fascinating pursuits known to the educated man. How did language originate? Which came first verbs or nouns? Is speech an accident or a god-given faculty? What part does the Broca convolution play in man's progress? Did it make speech or speech make it? And so, we might go on for hours.

In this stage of human existence words play a greater part in life than at any previous period. A man's success or failure depends much upon his power to express himself. The real world is the world of thought. We judge of a man by his power of thought; and what we know of that depends upon his power of speech. Words therefore, are an important factor to all of us. Let us study them and master them. The Bible has the most wonderful English in it of any book extant. Study it for its divine teachings, but also to learn its language. And next to the Bible, study Shakespeare. You will not only learn words, and their surpassing power, but you will at the same time imbibe wisdom—human and divine.

The Julian And Gregorian Calendars

The Julian Calendar is that introduced by Julius Caesar, from whom it takes it name, in the year 46 B. C. It was slightly modified by Augustus, by whom each year was made to consist of 365 days, and each fourth year to contain 366 days. The month had the same names and sequence as at present.

The Gregorian Calendar is the one now in general use, and was introduced by Pope Gregory in the year 1582, A. D., and adopted in the kingdom of Great Britain and the British Colonies in 1762. It reformed the Julian Calendar, which was 11 minutes longer than the astronomical year, so that the date of the vernal equinox had, since 325 A. D., become displaced by ten days. Pope Gregory restored its proper date by ordaining that October 5th, 1582, should be called October 15th, and prevented future displacement by providing that of the centesimal years only those exactly divisible by 400 should be leap years. In other respects the Calendar is the same as the Julian. The difference between the two calendars is thus ten days from 1582 to 1700; 11 days from 1700 to 1800; 12 days from 1800 to 1900; and 13 days since 1900. The two models of reckoning are called Old Style and New Style, abbreviated O. S., and N. S. Thus Inauguration Day, March 4th, 1921, N. S., would be March 17th, O. S.

DIAMOND DIES

Fun for Women to Dye Garments, Draperies, Everything, Like New

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains simple directions to dye old, faded, shabby materials whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods, any new, rich, fadeless color. Buy no other dye.

"Suicide By Inches"

Thousands of people commit suicide by inches!

If you took minute daily doses of some poisonous drug, no particular effect might be noticed until accumulation of the poison made its action evident.

Yet how many realize that poisonous substances are formed constantly during digestion and the preparation of the food waste for elimination.

If the bowels act regularly and thoroughly, these poisons are eliminated. But if constipation exists, there results stagnation of intestinal waste, germs multiply; and poisons are formed and carried by the blood to every cell of the body.

The victim of self poisoning commits suicide by inches. Pills, castor oil, laxative waters and salts only force and irritate the bowels, and make constipation a habit.

Nujol works on an entirely new principle.

Instead of forcing or irritating the system, it simply softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the walls of the intestines, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to squeeze the food waste along so that it passes naturally out of the system.

Nujol thus prevents constipation because it helps Nature maintain easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Nujol is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only, bearing Nujol Trade Mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 50 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger".

Meat — then and now

THE meat peddler of the old days, who killed his own live stock and then sold the meat from the tail of a cart, is gone from our larger towns and cities. He was a pioneer and did good service but he couldn't keep up with his job. Crude methods had to give way to new ideas in sanitation and distribution.

Concentration of population drove the peddler and his wagon out and brought the modern packing industry and the neighborhood retailer in his place.

And the modern packing business means this:

That near the farms and ranches, the centers of live stock production, are packing plants that assemble and manufacture the meat products you use.

That swift and sanitary refrigerator cars carry your meat from these packing plants to every part of the country.

Dealers in towns and villages are supplied directly and regularly from these refrigerator cars.

And in cities the refrigerator car is unloaded into branch houses, chilled and sanitary, from which deliveries are made to your meat shop. And all the time the meat is kept so chilled that deterioration is prevented.

Swift & Company's plants and branches are co-ordinated, interchanging supply and supporting each other, when necessary, so that no section of the country may ever lack its daily meat.

WOMAN WEIGHED ONLY 84 POUNDS

West Virginia Woman Takes Tanlac and Now Weighs 117 Pounds

"At the time I began taking Tanlac I only weighed eighty-four pounds but now I weigh a hundred and seventeen," said Mrs. J. E. Donovn, of 813 Temple Street., Hinton, W. Va.

"For more than a year before I began taking Tanlac I suffered untold agonies frm indigestion after every meal. I went for days at a time without anything, but had constant pains in my stomach whether I ate or not. I fell off to almost a living skeleton, and for four months lived on nothing but bread and milk and had to spend almost all that time in bed.

"I sought relief in every direction, but it was all in vain until I got Tanlac. I finished my fourth bottle of Tanlac a few months ago feeling splendid and haven't had a touch of indigestion from that day till this. I eat and sleep fine, have actually gained thirty-three pounds, feel good all the time and can do all my housework with ease. I will never forget Tanlac, for it is the only thing that ever helped me and I firmly believe if I had not taken it I would still be a sick woman."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr., and good druggists everywhere.

REPRESENTATIVE MOORE TALKS TO BOARD OF TRADE

Washington, Feb. 28.—Hon. R. Walton Moore in his address to the Washington Board of Trade, last week made a memorable impression upon the large audience gathered to hear him. His remarks, in part, were as follows:

"The Tyler report, covering an investigation made by engineers of the War Department," said Mr. Moore, "was submitted to Congress only recently. The report recommends that provision be made for increasing the water supply by constructing an additional conduit from the Great Falls. It is clear that this should be done without unnecessary delay.

"The work should start at once, as it cannot be completed under three years. Congress should take prompt action. It can and should appropriate the sum of $200,000 which is asked for the purpose of organizing and preparing for the work. The present aqueduct, which is sixty years old, is feeble; it has served its time, and there is a tremendous and urgent need that corrective steps should be taken without delay.

"In regard to the power supply for the District," continued Mr. Moore, "the Tyler report is perfectly clear. It says: Comprehensive development of the Potomac river by means of power dams in the main river and storage reservoirs on certain of the large tributaries is economically feasible, and continuous power thereby can be generated at a cost per kilowat hour of approximately 50 per cents less than for power generated by steam, if the entire output of the hydro-electric plant can be marketed.

"The cost of the work will be around $32,000,000—less than the cost of one battleship—which will include the interest on what is expended during the progress of the work. It is estimated that the power can be distributed on a basis which will yield 6 per cent on the capital invested and provide a sinking fund to repay the investment in a period of about thirty years.

"If the plan for the development of the water power is carried out, it will mean cheaper electric current for all purposes within the District of Columbia. The power generated will be sufficient to meet the needs of three or four cities the size of Washington. It seems fairly certain that the excess beyond the requirements of the District would find a market. As I understand, power is now transmitted in the south for distances exceeding 200 miles, and in other sections for much greater distances. A large territory outside of the limits of the District would thus be within reach to which power could be furnished for all purposes, manufacturing included. Within a radius of 100 miles there are cities and towns where the power could be marketed.

"Within that radius on the Maryland side of the river is the city of Baltimore and such towns as Frederick and Annapolis, and on the Virginia such cities as Alexandria, Charlottesville and Fredericksburg, not to mention very many smaller communities that are steadily growing. Close to Washington, which we do not believe or hope is destined to be a manufacturing point is Alexandria city which, with an amply supply of power obtainable at a low cost, should become a most important manufacturing center, as it has the advantage of being located on navigable water within easy reach of the bay and the ocean, and also the advantage of excellent railroad facilities.

"The Tyler plan calls for a dam near the Chain bridge, which would show a height out of the water on its lower side of about ninety-five feet, and a second dam at the Great Falls showing a similar height of about seventy-five feet. A feature of each dam would be gates sixty-five feet in width, and twenty-five feet deep, which could be operated to protect the country above the dams from abnormal overflow in periods of high water. The construction of the dams would serve to create two lakes of sheets of water, one between the Chain bridge dam and the Great Falls, about nine miles in length with an average width of about one-half a mile, and another between the Great Falls and Brunswick, about thirty-nine miles in length with an average width of about one mile. The scenic aspects of the Great Falls would rarely be in any way marred—only now and then when there happened to be very low water. Locks in the dams would make it possible for small vessels to navigate the river from Georgetown to Brunswick. The boats now towed on the canal between Brunswick and Georgetown could be moved over the slack water of the artificial lakes. The plan contemplates the construction of bridges over the two dams twenty-one feet in width, connected with the highway on both sides of the river. Aside from the commercial considerations, the plan if carried out, will almost immeasurably add to the attractiveness and beauty of the surroundings of what is already the most beautiful capital city in the world."

A move is expected to be made in the House however, to obtain the rank of lieutenant-general for Major-General Enoch H. Crowder.

The Wickersham-Grigsby election contest from Alaska is to be settled this week by the House, with indication pointing to unseating of Delegate Grigsby, a Democrat.

Searchers Find Body Of Lexington Woman

Lexington, Va., Feb. 28.—After a search in which cadets at the Virginia Military Institute and students of Washington and Lee University joined, the body of Miss Maggie R. Graham, sister of Judge Samuel J. Graham, of the United States Court of Claims, Washington, D. C., was found Saturday in a seat in the grandstand of the athletic field at Washington and Lee.

The body was in a sitting position, and physicians believe death occurred some time last night. Nearby was a bottle of poison.

Search for Miss Graham began yesterday, after news that she was missing from her home had spread. All alarm was sent out by means of the town fire bell and a searching party soon organized.

Miss Graham conducted a boarding house here for students and was well known by alumni of the institutions.

Members of the family last night said she had been in ill health for several months.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"The price of the FORDSON Tractor has been reduced from $790.00 to $625.00, effective immediately.

"This price change has been made possible through lower costs of materials and the fact that we are now located in our new Tractor Plant with greatly increased economic manufacturing facilities in immediate connection with our foundry and machine shops and large blast furnaces where iron is poured directly from the ore, giving us maximum efficiency with the power to reduce cost of production, and down comes the price in line with our policy to market our products at the lowest possible figure without in any way affecting our high standard of quality.

"We are particularly pleased in being able to bring about this big reduction in price at this time because the farmer needs all the help we can give him and this big cut in price will be the means of placing a valuable power unit within the reach of practically every one of them, not to mention industrial and commercial concerns which likewise have benefitted through its use and are already realizing, to a much greater extent, its value as a power and hauling unit. But particularly has the FORDSON Tractor proved a most valuable factor in the saving of farm labor, at the same time increasing the per acre crop yield as well as making possible a utilization of previously uncultivated land, to say nothing of removing no end of drudgery.

"There is no question that the use of machine power on the farm is the greatest advancement made in the development of agriculture, not only in money saving and money making results, as well as raising the standards of living on the farm to a much higher level, but because of its proved value in making every type of land more productive, and consequently our desire to place the FORDSON within the reach of all.

"THERE IS NO CHANGE IN THE PRESENT FORD CAR AND TRUCK PRICES, which are already at the lowest possible figure and now with rock bottom reached on the tractor price a further reduction in price of either the car, truck or tractor is out of the question; in fact, the big price cuts have been made in anticipation of continuous maximum production and increases may be necessary before long if a large volume of new business is not obtained. Therefore, present prices of Ford products cannot be guaranteed against possible increases."

Ask for the book "The Fordson at Work," which will be supplied free of cost. Let us demonstrate the value of the Fordson on your farm, in your factory, lumber yard, coal yard, or in any general hauling or power work you have to do and let us have your order for a Fordson.
